The point(s) at which fish and fish products may enter a chain of custody:

All product is landed into recognised points where DCD inspections are carried out, as detailed in the report. At each port, product is containerised and shipped to customers. All client group members have their own CoC certification and so this containerisation and shipping is already within the CoC regime. The only exception to this is some product landed into NZ which may enter factories belonging to Client Group members for further processing before sale. Such product will, however, be covered by the CoC systems of the Client Group members.

The point of change of ownership, from which CoC is required, will be sale from the vessel after unloading (usually containerised) or sale from the factory in the case of NZ members.

All merchants and processors wishing to sell MSC certified fish that has been purchased from this fishery will require their own ongoing Chain of Custody certification.

The parties, or categories of parties, that are entitled to use this certificate to enter fish from the certified fishery into certified chains of custody:

Only members of the Client Group are eligible to use the fishery certificate:
